

Minister's Medal Honouring Excellence in Health Quality and Safety

Individual Champion Honour Roll

Lisa McCool-Philbin

Lisa McCool-Philbin is Dean of Health, Human Care and Wellness, Schools of Biotechnology and Environmental Studies at Canadore College located in North Bay. Lisa has demonstrated dedication and commitment to the development of interprofessional education and collaboration within the Health and Human Service Programs at Canadore and externally with partner agencies for the past ten years.

Lisa has facilitated and negotiated the opportunity for Canadore students to deliver direct patient care with area healthcare organizations using an interprofessional patient-centered care approach. Lisa has also advocated for professional development funds for Canadore and Nipissing University educators to be better prepared to teach from an interprofessional, collaborative, and patient-centered perspective.

Lisa is also leading the development of a "Simulated Participant" project which will involve the use of actors to role play patient situations for interprofessional student based learning activities. This will serve to further enhance the quality of existing simulated patient-centred care learning at Canadore College.

*The information provided above is taken directly from 2016 Minister's Medal applications –
Facts and information herein have been updated in 2016 but have not been verified for accuracy.*